Aggression Repulsed

The present policy of the United Nations is not to settle political issues by force but to prevent the aggressor from imposing a settlement by force.

The invasion of South Korea on June 25, 1950, represented an attempt by Communists to profit by aggression. The resistance to that aggression, if it succeeds in thwarting the purpose of the invaders, will successfully carry out the policy of the United Nations and make it apparent to the Communists that aggression is unprofitable.

There is, of course, a political objective in connection with all of Korea. This is a unified, independent and democratic government. The aim had been accomplished in South Korea, but North Korea, under Russian control, was no part of the scheme. Nobody proposed an invasion of North Korea in order to establish a democratic regime in that part of the country. Consequently, our military operations have not been undertaken with a view to "imposing" a democracy by force.

Progress on the Farm

One of the greatest social and economic advances made in the prairies during the past 15 years has been the rapid electrification of rural areas.

While a strong controversy has raged over whether the government or private enterprise is best equipped to supply farms with power, there have been great strides made by both in serving rural districts.

Extension of electric service to rural areas has had important effect upon farm life and activity . Not only do rural families enjoy the advantages and conveniences of electric appliances but farm work has been facilitated by the use of power which conserves manpower and makes possible greater and more economic productivity.

And it should be apparent that introduction of electricity to thousands of farm homes, not counting the other activities served in the rural areas, means a tremendous market for the manufacturers of electrical devices and appliances.

This, in turn, means business for wholesalers and retailers as well as those who serve the electrical needs of farm customers.

This is one instance of a trend wherein better living standards to one portion of the population has contributed to the welfare of the entire population.

Death Is So Final

A splintering of wood, a dull thud and tragedy descended upon a little group of children who, but a moment before, had made the playground re-echo with their happy shouts.

The heavy beam which had formed part of a playground swing was lifted from the broken body of a little child. Death drew a curtain across a life scarcely begun.

The shock and grief which darkened the child's home may be imagined; the loss to the community was inestimable.

Such an accident could happen here. Playground equipment, even in perfect condition, is something of a hazard. In poor condition it invites disaster.

What have you done to protect your child from such a fate? Have you ever looked at the equipment on which your child plays, either in your yard or in the community playground? Do you know how often school playground equipment is checked or if it ever is?

If accidents are to be prevented the best in equipment must be provided and we must insist on its periodic inspection. Also there should be competent playground supervision.

This spring is a good time to see to it that our children at play are as safe as is humanly possible.

Case of The 50c Want Ad

By T. W. PUE

I am indebted to R. A. Denison, and his article in the current issue of the Canadian Weekly Editor for a very illuminating series of letters concerning a 50c classified advertisement and a $2.00 subscription.

T. W. PUE

Before you read this—would you check up and see if, perhaps, your subscription is in arrears. But—tosh and bother—why bring that up? This makes a good story:

Once upon a time there was a reporter who worked for a big city daily. He was a very good reporter. So he didn't think he should spend his time tracking down news leads 'till 2 or 3 a.m.

"No, sir," said he, "this is not for me!"

So he asked his boss if he could take a crack at being news editor and his boss said, "Sure!" So our hero took over his new job and worked very hard with his blue pencil 'till 2 or 3 a.m. By and by there came a time when less and less people were jumping off the big bridge; less and less guests of Spike's Bar around the corner were getting stabbed in the back with ice picks and the mayor's wife had returned to her husband after running away with the part-time dog catcher.

In short, news was just so so.

"So," says our news editor, "now is the time for me to take a holiday while I have the chance. I will take my wife and kids away from this mess for a while and head into the country."

Anyway, he liked the country so much he bought a little weekly paper.

And one of the trials and tribulations of his new life included the following correspondence:

Dear Sir — Shame on that Voicer for calling you editors birdbrains and hoping you'd drop dead, because he doesn't agree with you. I"ll have him know that's fighting words as far as I'm concerned. And what language you used! It's spring, sir and I think your mind needs weeding.

WEN MEN WERE MEN

Dear Sir—That varsity student who wrote in saying that wearing of stiff collars and ties in the summer is torture is a good example of what men are like these days. I keep telling my granddaughter she doesn't know what a real man looks like. Oh, for the old days when a man could thrill you. But these drugstore cowboys these days think they're well dressed in their silly zoot-suits. They should have seen how handsome my first husband was.

ADVICE TO WIVES

Dear Sir—I am going to ditch my husband and find myself a real man. Why? Because every time we had a little tiff he ran home to his father! I'd advise any other woman in a similar predicament to get rid of the worm. Anyway, mine's been unfaithful to me.

GOD'S WORD

Dear Sir—A Voicer asked "how can I know which of the 256 religions is right?" There is only one true religion. To find it you must turn to your Bible. Christ said to God, "Thy word is truth," (John, 17:17). True Christians believe God's word.

THE FARMER'S BURDEN

Dear Sir—One farmer puts his coarse grain into his dairy cows, steers, hogs, etc., and then sells them when and how he wishes—for cash. But his neighbor, who has no stock, is compelled by a dictatorial Alberta act (penalty for evasion $500 fine or six months in jail) to deliver all such grains to the government to dispose of as "they please", and pay the farmer —some day—"some money"—for them.

What kind of a democracy do we have under Alberta's Social Credit dictators?

FORMOSAN FOLLIES

Dear Sir—While our boys are sacrificing their lives in Korea, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and his army are sitting down in Formosa, no doubt eating chow we're helping supply. GO IT ALONE

Dear Sir—I live in Northwest Territories and take your paper every week because I like the news of my hometown. But I must disagree with that politician who said Alberta and the other western provinces should take over the Northwest Territories. We are building a new country up here, and as much as I like Alberta, I think we can go it alone.

Federal Gov't to Help Rebuild Canada's Forests

A long-term federal aid program for building Canada's forest resources has been announced at Ottawa.

The expected federal cost is around $1,000,000.

The government will share on a 50-50 basis with the provinces the cost of provincial government forest inventories. This is expected to take about five years.

The government also will pay 25 per cent of the cost of "reasonable" programs of reforesting crown lands provided the provincial expenditure each year is not less than the average spending of the last three years.

Aim of the plan, launched under the Federal Forestry Act of 1949, is to help restock Canadian timber resources to the point where the annual replacement will be at least equal to depletion by cutting and other reductions.

More Power To You

EVA CRUMMY

Some women take to spring cleaning like others take to a new hat. But the other members of the family don't always get the same "lift' out of this spring fever.

tell us that it shouldn't be necessary to turn the house upside down. Not all of us have air-conditioning; and winter weather prevents us from doing some of those jobs on schedule — much as we'd like it that way.

Eva Crummy

We enjoy a clean house. But there will still be a lot of dust in this old world when we are only dust ourselves. Wise is the homemaker who stops to enjoy the little fingerprint expert, whose marks we attempt to remove. Perhaps someday we will remember bitter-sweet longing how those little hands found their way through the broom, mop and pail to hug us and say, "I love you, Mommy!"

A clean house makes an attractive atmosphere for the family. But a women whose every thought is on cleaning belittles the name of housewife. Whereas a homemaker with unbiased mind who rears citizens with the same outlook, is worthy of the name. That "extra special" roundup for dust might remind us to ferret those spidery webs of racial, religious and social prejudice out of our minds.

On this continent—only the Indian is true native. We are all foreigners. Who among us has the right to say that his neighbor is?

Getting rid of these mental barriers is like cleaning the attic. It makes us happier as well as our family, neighbor and our community.

Grand Cowboys Meet President, W. Olexiuk

VILNA—William Olexiuk, lumber contractor at Valemount and president of the "Grand Cowboys," visited Vilna last week. The "cowboys" held the meeting there at 4 o'clock on April 18.

Bill Podaronuk and Mike Froescul supplied the gas for Walter Hull's taxi, the means of transportation, with the aid of a white horse, which Mr. Olexiuk purchased.

The members are as follows: B. Olexiuk, supervisor; G. Shapka, general store manager; S. Elaschuk, Massey-Harris agent; W. Hull, taxi driver; J. Robertson, driver's assistant; O. Paulson, Judge; W. Elaschuk, hotel manager; Bill Podarunok, George's right-hand man, and M. Froescul, law maintainer.

After the meetiug, an early breakfast of bacon and eggs was served. They are faithful to their motto — early to rise, early to bed, makes you healthy, wealthy and dead — and actually came home quite early.

The 'Sewing Circle" will hold a meeting on May 15 at Pine Knoll School. Each girl called her mother and after lunch will give her a gift. This is hoped to be a surprise, for if the mothers expected anything it was on Sunday.

Early Action Sought On Canadian Bill of Rights

Incorporation in the Canadian constitution of a national bill of rights was urged upon the federal government in Ottawa by a large delegation representing a cross section of Canadians.

As an interim measure the government should adopt a declaration of human rights modelled on the United Nations' universal declaration of human rights, the delegation suggested, when it met with Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and his cabinet.

These proposals were recommended by the special senate committee on human rights and fundamental freedoms in 1950.

B. K. Sandwell, chairman of the committee for a bill of rights, pointed out that the recommendations of the senate committee had been unanimously approved by the senate.

A great many Canadians now expect these recommendations to be put into effect, he said. "Whether they are implemented depends to a considerable degree upon the leadership and support of the government."

The delegation declared governments could not always be relied upon to respect the rights and fundamental freedoms of individuals.

The theory of checks upon the power of government to take away personal liberties was already recognized in the constitution in the provisions for the right to use the French and English languages, to maintain separate schools and to have periodic elections and sessions of parliament.

"There are many Canadians who feel that rights and freedoms of the individual as are protected by law in Canada are too diffuse," the brief stated. "There is a real need to consolidate them in a single document."

The desirability of uniformity in the rights and liberties guaranteed individuals in all parts of Canada was stressed. The delegation also emphasized the educational value of the bill of rights in fostering national unity, respect for citizenship and a feeling of security for Canada's many minorities.

Although Britain did not have a bill of rights, it is explained that Britain did not have Canada's problem of divided jurisdiction.

Britain had only one parliament whereas Canada has 11 governments, not to mention municipalities. Britain was a small country where infringements readily came to public attention. Its population was homogeneous and had a long tradition of civil liberty.

Alberta Wheat Crop This Year Dependent On Warm Weather of Next Few Weeks

The size of Alberta's wheat crop this year depends on how much moderately warm weather the province gets during the next couple of weeks.

Any more extremely wet weather would create a tendency among farmers to switch acreage from wheat to other coarse grains, according to the agriculture department.

Seeding has commenced in some areas that had little winter snow and where moisture conditions were described as "excellent." A department official termed it too early to predict harvest prospects.

Normally, seeding was underway the first of May and it was hoped to be general the first week of the month. But last year, seeding was not general until May 29.

Officials hope for a slight increase in wheat acreage this year if favorable conditions prevail, but said acreage would not reach the 1949 figure.

First seeding in the Edmonton area was carried out last week when 100 acres of wheat were seeded on the farm of Donald Dick, who farms in the St. Albert district.

He was able to do early seeding of his Thatcher seed because the land was quite high and run-off and drying was quite rapid.

Barring drought, hail or extreme wetness, a "fairly good" wheat crop is predicted for Alberta this year.

If and when Cary Grant plays in the movie being written for him by Andrew Solt, he will play four parts. He plays a game of cards with his three brothers, all, of course, played by one star.

ALTA. HUNTING PHEASANT EGGS

Alberta game branch officials are hunting pheasant eggs.

The pheasant, one of the hunter's favorite birds, may be in rather short supply this year. Severe storms last winter killed an estimated 50 to 75 per cent of Alberta's pheasants.

Alberta usually supplies Saskatchewan with some eggs, but now Saskatchewan is on the hunt for pheasant eggs too.

Posture Habits Of Students Scored

CALGARY — (BUP) — Dr. L. C. Allan, assistant city medical health officer, believes 75 per cent of Calgary school children do not know how to walk correctly.

"Too many children allow their shoulder blades to stick out like angel's wings," he said. "At school examinations, half the children did not know whether they were standing up straight."

The biggest fault seems to be that of holding the head down instead of back and resting on top of the spine, he said.

"If children are allowed to assume an incorrect posture at an early age," he warns, "they will be round-shouldered when they reach the age of 20 or 30."

Farmers Net Most Money From Wheat

The percentages of farm cash income contributed by the sale of various farm products are indicated by figures compiled by R. E. English, statistician for the department of agriculture.

In 1938, Alberta farmers received more than 60 per cent of their cash income from the sale of wheat but in 1943 only 21 per cent of their income came from wheat sales. In 1949 wheat sales provided 45 per cent of cash income and in 1950 approximately 40 per cent.

RODEO TIME will soon be here in Alberta. Big stampedes are scheduled for many points, and even Edmonton will have one next month. Saddled bronc seen here is busy giving wild ride to cowboy.

Small-Town Art on Tour In Alberta Art Display

Paintings by artists from small Alberta towns are featured in the fifth traveling arts display of the Visual Arts Board of the Cultural Activities Branch which started its province-wide tour at Camrose recently.

This display, contains paintings of 33 Alberta artists, 14 of whom come from the smaller towns. Twice as many artists from smaller towns are represented than during any previous display. Many of the artists in the group whose work is being shown were trained in community art classes arranged by the Department of Extension of the University of Alberta.

The paintings offer a variety of technique and subject. There are several portraits, two studies of Alberta Indians and a wide representation of agricultural, mountain and rural scenes. Of interest are three different interpretations of burnt timberland.

The display will travel between Calgary and Westlock. To date reservations have been made for the display to be exhibited in 14 points. Reservations can be made up to the month of December.

Future showings of the display are May 22-26, Rocky Mountain House; May 29-June 2, Sylvan Lake; June 5-9, Innisfail; June 12-16, Three Hills; June 19-23, Didsbury; June 26-30, Carstairs.

Federal Gov't to Tackle Housing in Defence Areas

OTTAWA—The federal government is again wrestling with the problem of housing in areas where defence production is expanding, and an announcement is expected before this session ends.

It is anticipated Ottawa will make special provisions over and above the usual ones of the National Housing Act to encourage housing building in defence industry zones.

Edmonton ranks high on the list of cities designated as defence industry points. Growing number of defence industries, together with big new military installations, are expected to increase Edmonton's housing problem.

'DEALS' NOT WANTED

But not wanted by the government is any return to "temporary wartime housing" of the last war, nor any type of rental or subsidized housing. Attempts will be made to avoid the necessity of federal-provincial deals to provide subsidized housing.

It is hoped that special provisions can be made within the NHA to encourage defence workers to build their own homes and at the same time make house building attractive to private enterprise.

Possible is a plan of lower down payments by the home builder who is a defence worker. Only persons who are certified as defence workers would receive benefits of this type.

Rental housing, if adopted, would be a last gap measure. Ottawa would have to be convinced that defence housing requirements are so pressing that a construction program by private builders would not meet existing needs.

LETTER TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa—I am to be married soon and I have been reading over the marriage ceremony.

We have decided to leave out the word "obey" because people who love each other have no cause to ask obediance of each other. Please tell me what you understand "to cherish" means.

BRIDE-TO-BE

Answer:

The dictionary gives as some of the meanings of cherish, "to treat with tenderness," "hold dear" and "hold in the heart." When your husband promises at the altar to cherish you, it means that besides giving you shelter, clothing and food he will also bestow upon you affection, sympathy and loyalty. You two will stand together always and, in time of trouble, he will be the one person you can rely upon. He will be there to lean upon and to comfort you and you will gain new strength from his sympathetic understanding and love. What might appear as tribulations if you met them alone should become trivialities if you have him by you and he continues to "cherish" you.

LOUISA.

A pitiful letter from a "Broken-Hearted Wife" also comes this week. She has two small children and up until the last few weeks her home has been happy. Her husband, however has started staying out at nights and then comes home and brags about where he has been and what he has done. She wants to know how to win his love back again.

Well, personally, I don't think he is worth having and I think the best thing you can do, if you have a reliable relative or woman to take care of your children, is to find a good job and leave your husband in the gutter where he evidently enjoys wallowing.

It is understandable that a man might stray from the straight and narrow path, but for him to do such a thing and then come home and brag about it, tags him as a low order of the human race indeed. The sooner you get rid of that kind of cattle, the better off you will be.

LOUISA

To a broken-hearted Mother—I can see by your letter that you realize that you went about your problem in the wrong way.

To begin with, you now say you were just a jealous fool to accuse your husband of things he did not do. By your nagging you have driven him to the point where he doesn't want to come home any more.

Why don't you tell him what you have written me? That you have made his home an unhappy place by your suspicious and that hereafter there will be no more nagging.

Make home a cheerful, pleasant place again and that is the surest way I know of getting him to come back.

After all, a man of 50 wants a place that he can go after work hours to relax. He doesn't want to be worried with all sorts of imaginary fears and accusations.

Feed him good food and be cheerful.

Good luck, LOUISA.

Rotarians Show Young Canada Nation's Government in Session

Edmonton Rotarians are co-operating in a new "Adventure in Citizenship" sponsored by the Rotary Club of Ottawa, which is bringing together at Ottawa, May 21 to 24, selected high school students from various parts of Canada for a round of sightseeing and first-hand observation of the government of their country in operation.

The four days' program includes a visit to the House of Commons while in session, a call upon His Excellency the Governor General Lord Alexander, and Vicountess Alexander, at Government House, meeting cabinet ministers and members of parliament at social gatherings, participating in group discussions led by prominent educationists, and finally the receiving of Certificates of Canadian Citizenship at the hands of the Prime Minister, the Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent.

The young guests will be shown the Capital's scenic driveways, the Central Experimental Farm, National Art Gallery, the several museums, and will then inspect the large scale model of the National Capital of the Future.

During their stay the young visitors will be guests of the Ottawa Rotary Club, many of them in the homes of Rotarians. The delegates were selected by their schools, and travel arrangements made by local Rotary clubs. On their return home it is anticipated reports on their experiences and observations will be made before school assemblies and the Rotary clubs concerned.

THORHILD. — United Church Ladies' Aid meeting was held at the home of Mrs. F. Martel on May 11 with 14 members present. Reports were read by Mrs. Warren, the president, and Mrs. Martel, treasurer.

It was decided by the ladies that a $10 donation be sent to the Cancer Fund by the aid.

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing bingo, and a double meaning cooking contest. In honor of eight members who have had a birthday since January, each lady received a small gift and a card.

At the close of the evening the hostess served a delicious lunch and a decorated birthday cake.

HAMLIN NEWS NOTES

Spring farming operations are now under way in the Hamlin district. Some farmers have already commenced seeding and the busy housewives have turned from spring housecleaning to gardening. Two more weeks of fine weather should see the conclusion of almost all the spring plowing and seeding.

The Hamlin highway, which was in dire need of repair to smoothen out the ruts left by the last rain, was dragged this week. A few culverts are being put in the road to eliminate excess water in the ditches which causes the roads to become soft and muddy after a rain or during spring run-off. More are needed at various locations along the highway to accommodate next spring's overflows. By placing these culverts now, the municipality will save a lot of wear and tear on vehicles next spring and will maintain the goodwill of the farmers.

The side roads have many washouts, and some are impassable for cars. Some good neighbor farmers have filled in the washouts temporarily in front of their residences, but there is a lot more work needed to make them half presentable to the public. When are the sideroads going to get a little attention? ask the Hamlin farmers.

Scientists Seek Key To Why Glass Shatters

COLUMBUS, O.—(BUP)—A team of research scientists at Battelle Institute is trying to crack the mystery of why a window glass breaks and a dinner plate shatters when hit with a hammer.

A workable explanation might be a boon to defence. Many such materials could be used in jet engines, rockets and gas turbines, if breakage under sharp blows or sudden changes in temperatures could be avoided.

Theoretically, the glass and the plate are harder than the hammer, according to Zane Schofield and Winston Duckworth, two ceramists in charge of the project.

Many ceramic materials are lightweight and can withstand higher temperatures than metals, the researchers say. They add that ceramics do not corrode or oxidize at extremely high temperatures—one of the drawbacks of many metals.

The breakage of a pane of glass is a puzzling phenomenon, according to Schofield and Duckworth.

The reason is that atomic forces in a ceramic material are stronger than the force it takes to bend or dent metal.

One theory of breakage is that there are thousands of tiny invisible imperfections in a piece of glass or crockery. Engineers call these imperfections "dislocations," or "stress concentrators." That theory explains that a ceramic body breaks under mechanical or thermal shock because it is put together improperly.

Don't try to "stick" the tourist, be truthful and don't exaggerate Alberta's attractions, always show tourists kindness, courtesy and service.

That was the main message delivered by Hon. A. J. Hooke, minister of economic affairs for Alberta.

Mr. Hooke said that tourists don't come to Alberta primarily to spend money. They come for recreation, for reasons of health, for fishing and hunting, and often to look over business prospects.

"Sticking" the tourist, overcharging for food, accomodation or services would be killing the goose that lays the golden egg, he declared. "We don't want people to think that Alberta is only for tourists with plenty of money to spend."

Exaggeration of the attractions of Alberta, the minister said, was not only unnecessary but would probably lead to bad results. With Alberta's wonderful scenery, good fishing and hunting, there is no need to build it up bigger than it is.

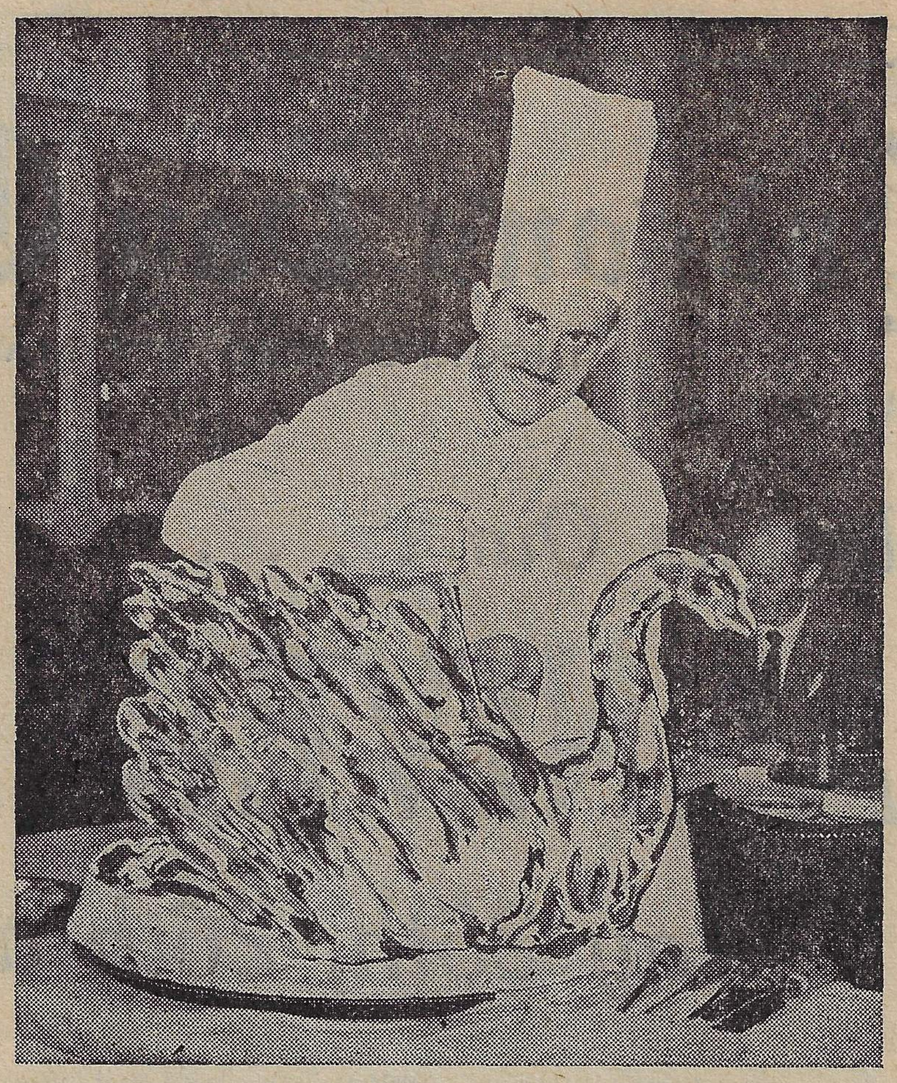

Kindness, courtesy and service, he said, would result in the best kind of advertising the province could get—tourists going home and telling their friends what a wonderful place Alberta was for a vacation. There were more than a million visitors to Alberta last year, he pointed out, and if each one was satisfied with what he found it would be the same as hiring a million salesmen to sell the attractions of the province.

Army's Growth Poses Welfare Problems

MONTREAL — (BUP) — The growth of the Canadian armed services has been cited as a factor contributing to new and increasing problems for welfare services across the country.

H. P. Thornhill, chairman of the board of directors of the Welfare Federation of Montreal said that many of the Red Feather agencies in Montreal already had been faced with social problems, the most common being the necessity of helping wives awaiting army allowances.

He said the social and psychiatric situations resulting from a father's absence were even more important, and that many cases required services of professionally-trained social workers.

Rent Control Board To Start Hearings In June

The Alberta Rental Control Board should be ready to start hearing individual rental appeals by about June 1, chairman Sam B. Ferris of Edmonton said this week.

Regulations and forms drawn up by the board have been submitted to the Alberta Cabinet for approval. The rest of the rent control machinery is nearing completion.

Mr. Ferris said the board has received only eight or ten rental appeals since it took over provincial controls after Federal regulations lapsed April 30.

But an "enormous" volume of inquiries about Alberta's rental control system have been received.

Mr. Ferris said a great many landlords and tenants now are negotiating new rents. Many of these negotiations appeared to be successful. Any new agreements must be filed with the board.

The board's offices are in Edmonton and Calgary but it will hold hearings anywhere in the province providing there are enough cases to be heard at one time.
